LEO TOLSTOY'S PROPHECY

United States of Nations

By Ernest Crutcher, M. D.

TOLSTOI was much of a prophet. His Prophesy, written in 1910, for the Czar of Russia, the King of England and the Emperor of Germany, has much bearing on the present war, though many tried to fit it to the other Great War. It is interesting.

"I see floating on the sea of human fate, the silhouette of a nude woman. She is, with her beauty, her poise, her smile, her jewels a super-Venus. Nations rush madly after her, each eager to attract her especially. In her hair ornament of diamonds and rubies are engraved with her name: "Commercialism". Like the eternal courtesan, she flirts with them all. As alluring and bewitching as she seems, much destruction and agony follow in her wake. Her breath, reeking with sordid transactions, her voice of metallic character, like gold,—and her look of greed are so much poison to the nations who fall victim to her charms.

"And behold! She has THREE gigantic arms, with three torches of universal corruption in her hands. The first torch represents the flame of war that the beautiful courtesan carries from city to city, and country to country. Patriotism answers with flashes of honest flame, but the end is the roar of guns and muskets.

"The second torch bears the flame of bigotry and hypocrisy. It lights the lamps only in temples and on the altars of sacred institutions. It carries the seed of falsity and fanaticism. It kindles the minds that are still in cradles and follows them to their graves.

"The second conflagration will start about 1912, set by the torch of the first arm in the countries of the southwestern Europe. It will develop into a destructive calamity in 1913. In that year I see all Europe in flames and bleeding. I hear the lamentations of great battlefields. About 1915 a strange figure from the north,—a new Napoleon,—enters the stage of bloody drama. He is a man of little military training, a writer and journalist, but in his grip most of Europe will remain until 1925. The end of the great calamity will mark a new political era for the whole world. THERE WILL BE LEFT NO EMPIRES AND KINGDOMS, but the world will form a federation of the UNITED STATES OF NATIONS. There will remain only four great giants: The Anglo Saxons, the Latins, the Slavs and the Mongolians.

"After the year 1925, I see a change in religious sentiment. The second torch of the courtesan has brought about the fall of the church. The ethical idea has almost vanished. Humanity is without moral feeling. But then a great reformer arises. He will clear the world of monotheism, and lay the corner stone of the temple of pantheism. God, Soul, Spirit and immortality will be molten in a new furnace, and a peaceful beginning of a new era. He is a Mongolian Slav, already walking the earth and active in affairs. He himself does not now realize the mission assigned to him by a superior Power.

"And behold the flame of the third torch, which has already begun to destroy our family relations, our standards of art and morals. The relation between men and women are accepted as a prossaic partnership of the sexes. Art has become realistic degeneracy. Political and religious disturbances have shaken the spiritual foundations of all nations. Only small spots here and there have remained untouched by the three destructive flames. The anti-national wars in Europe, the class wars of America, and the race wars in Asia, have strangled progress for half a century. I see a hero of literature and art arise from the ranks of the Latins and purging the world of the tedious stuff of the obvious. It is the light of symbolism that shall outshine the torch of commercialism. In the place of the polygamy and monogany of today there will come a poetogamy—a relation of the sexes based fundamentally on poetic connections of life. And I see the nations growing wiser, and realizing that the alluring woman of their destinies is, after all, nothing but an illusion. The world will have no use for armies, hypocritical religions, and degenerate art. Life is EVOLUTION, and Evolution is development from the simple to the complex of mind and body. I see the passing drama of the present form, how it fades like evening glow. One wave of the hand of commercialism and a new history begins."

MIDDLE-AGED WIFE

When twilight falls she sits and sighs.
Her life has grown so very tame.
Although her husband makes big pay,
Her days are nearly all the same.

She longs for children, three or four,
To cheer her on her downward trail.
There was no time, when she was young,
For children who would scream and wail.

But now she wants them, heavens, yes!
She says that Fate has cheated her.
So many luxuries all around.
But what's the good? Her life's a blur.

Technocracy Unmasked

"HOWARD SCOTT for DIRECTOR-GENERAL of DEFENSE"

In the issues of Wednesday, Jan. 21, both daily papers in San Diego carried a page high 5 column adv. presenting the TECHNATE of AMERICA with Howard Scott as director-general of defense in this war against Japan and the Axis. It announces that Technocracy is dedicated to America, now and forever.

The body of the advertisement in smaller print, though, is dedicated to complete destruction of the Republic of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, as complete a destruction as if Hitler were taking over our country. Individual enterprise is to be erased forever and this emergency is to be made the proper excuse and opportunity for abolishing the constitution and enthroning His new Majesty, His All-Highness, Howard Scott, Director-in-Chief of Technocracy, Inc.

The proposal as an emergency measure is addressed to President Roosevelt for the purpose of abolishing the present congress and wiping out the Constitution of the U. S.. A. and in its place establishing the Director-in-Chief of Technocracy Inc. as the right hand man of the Commander-in-Chief of the United States. The proposal is to immediately conscript wealth and man power and though the congress is to be asked to declare war against all the 13 national signatories to the Axis pact of Fascism, once the congress has turned over everything to Mr. Scott, Mr. Scott becomes AMERICA as truly and effectively as Adolf Hitler is GERMANY today.

While the matter in the advertisement is presented as a war emergency measure all who know what Technocracy proposes to do realize that after the war, Technocracy proposes to hold the same dictatorial powers over industry and the individuals as is proposed as a war measure.

THAT is Technocracy in its stark nakedness.

There can be no question but that a proposal along the lines suggested by the Adv. would create a most formidable war machine outranking Hitler's successes in the early Blitzkrieg in Europe. But it reduces the individual to the position of a cog, a number, deprives him of his individual identity and makes the Director-in-Chief Lord Almighty. Once Scott were to establish himself and his system in war time we would have a greater menace on our hands than being conquered by Hitler. The Republic would be lost. That's Technocracy as it is minus its trimmings and mental lures.

Cost-Plus Costs Too Much

Dear Kosti:

I seldom get a chance to fulfill my correspondence obligations because after I punch a machine all day at the office I'm tired (after using my brains, what I have) in figuring out the cost of mdse. manufactured on the red & black side of the ledger that it feels fairly releaving not to hold a pen in my hand; result unanswered correspondence.

But oftentimes, I think of the terrible expense we have in winning this war. Now who pays for it? Why, we taxpayers, and what I mean is, every article we buy has a federal tax on it.

Now our airplane factories do get contracts on a 10% plus basis, but I don't believe there is a time limit to these contracts, consequently we are not turning out our airplanes with enough speed & precision as there should be.

It seems to me, that if we took over airplane factories off the 10% cost plus basis and put them on a specific cost basis (I mean that price at which the gov't should pay for the "airship) as we do the ocean going vessels, "the fellow on top" is going to see to it that there would be no labor stalling, no strikes, and he should see to it that the laborer is satisfied & happy at his work, strikes cost money. They go into labor cost which is a big item in mfg of an article.

This would lessen labor disputes which would lower the cost of materials used by the ultimate manufacturer in producing a defense article, which in turn would make the gov't pay less for same, because rate of labor per unit would be less than it now is.

Now I didn't say that the laborer should be paid less, I meant (and tried to say) that there would be no stalling for time to make the pay check swell making us pay more for the article than we should. The materials used is the same but the labor cost on said materials and installation of said materials would be lower.

The rate of pay for the laborer, should be the same as now but the amount of work turned out would be greater and therefore that would lower cost per unit. (Follow me?) The fellow on top would tell the materials mfgr. that "I can pay only so much for aluminum or steel or what ever is necessary". He (materials mfgr.) in turn would tell the next mfgr.—"furnish me with raw materials at such and such a price—" Have the laborer still receive his same rate per hour, and do this and I'll bet you that an airplane costing $100,000 before would cost only $75,000 and we all would be money ahead because, the laborer, as well as ourselves, have to pay for this war—and the sooner materials are mfg'd and into final production the sooner this war would be won and the less we would have to pay for same.

I believe its the man on top, the finished goods mfgr who says "why should I try to get this airplane out for $90,000 & sell it for $99,000 when I can get more for it. Its a feather in my hat if I can make more money for my company", but I think it is treason. Unadulterated treason.

Perhaps you can send a little light thru this clouded subject and dry up that particular atmosphere.

This letter undoubtedly needs revamping as it is much too long for the news. And of course being me it probably should be checked by someone who knows more about it than myself.

By the way, what about this freezing of our savings accounts, bet it'll happen sooner than we expect.

Approaches Differ on Peace Setup

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON,— At one and the same time our statesmen, here in Washington, and apparently Britain's also, talk of the necessity of a post-war world with an even break accorded to each and every one of its component nations—in order that none may feel another urge to start fighting, because they'll all be so well satisfied that there'll be nothing for 'em to scrap for. Then we emphasize the equally vital necessity of so hamstringing such peoples as the Germans, Italians and Japs that they never will be capable of creating a later conflict.

I could quite understand a disagreement between a couple of of future-shapers, one arguing for all-around appeasement and permanent subjugation of the predatory countries.

But this isn't a disagreement between individuals. Both of the pair urge, in chorus, both of the two programs.

It stumps me to understand how the Germans or the Japs are going to be rendered so utterly powerless that they'll consider themselves on an equality with everybody else on earth and consequently will lack the slightest inclination in the direction of subsequent mischiefmaking.

The Italians, who, generally, aren't very bellicose, even after being prodded into international strife, by some exception, like Benito Mussolini, might be sufficiently suppressed to stay so, though I wouldn't think they'd like it, either.

Appeasal and Suppression

The Germans, though, are a different proposition. Maybe appeasing 'em a trifle at the last war's end would have kept 'em quiet, but it wasn't tried, and the result was Adolf Hitler. Hence the reasoning that, suppression having failed to work that time, the democracies would do well to be moderate after the present conflict, has a certain amount of cogency. But how can appeasal be successfully administered following today's muss, if accompanied by a still stronger dose of suppression than 1918?

The contention for suppression has its plausibility, too. Since it didn't "take" before, however, it appears that a lot more of it will be essential when the next terms are arranged. That's sound cerebration, isn't it? But how can suppression be made still more effective than before, if it's modified by a liberal allowance of appeasal?

And Japan?

Unofficial Washington discussions envisage a Nippon stripped of its army, with Manchuria, Korea and Formosa returned to China and with the southern half of Saghalien island restored to Russia. How's that for appeasement?

Italy, of course, is to be chucked out of northern Africa and the Balkans.

Spain, although it hasn't been in the war yet, has been, under Caudillo Franco, troublesomely pro-axis, and may lose its African territory south of the Strait of Gibraltar.

These questions undoubtedly have been thoroughly hashed over by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill during their Washington conference, a series of conversations with which Maxim Litvinoff, Boss Commissar Josef Stalin's recently appointed Russian ambassador, has been closely identified. Governments-in-exile of the various Germanly overrun countries likewise have been represented. To judge from informal diplomatic chats, they know pretty well how they propose to redivide the face of terra-firma and the oceans when they get the axis licked. To them it'll be an entirely satisfactory re-division, but I'm darned if I can see how it can be made to suit the axis bunch so well that they'll never want to go to war again.

Colonies Do the Fighting

WASHINGTON,— When the sensational facts at last are made known to the public, they will reveal that the Australians and New Zealanders in the sanguinary Battle of Kuala Lumpur, important Malayan rubber center, have suffered tremendous casualties. Here was gathered the elite from "down under", the picked troops of the colonials. The losses in proportion to the number of men engaged may equal or surpass the terrible toll taken of their elders in the last war at Gallipoli.

Not quite a year ago the first contingent of the Aussies landed at the straits, the biggest force ever to arrive in the peninsula. Since then three more expeditions were sent as reinforcements. The R. A. F. set up a base and engineers strung mines and barbed wire through the jungles under the comand of Maj. Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett, a former school teacher with 30 years' experience in soldiering.

This dreadful carnage may set off violent political repercussions. Already people on the small continent are critical because their sons have campaigned in distant Greece, Crete, Syria and Libya. Even Singapore is 2300 miles from Darwin. They see their homeland actually threatened by ruthless invaders and their defenders too far away to help.

David & "Rabies" Scare

(Friday, Jan. 23, 9:45 pm, KGB)

Some time ago I told you about my older boy David having been bitten by a dog which subsequently was declared to have had rabies according to our city health officer who wrote me two letters recommending that David receive the Pasteur treatment. We refused to have David subjected to the Pasteur treatment because it is contrary to our religious as well as our hygienic concepts. We treated David instead by naturopathic means under the directions of our family doctor who lives in Los Angeles and has a weekly health column in my paper. Inspite of all dire predictions that David will get the rabies unless he takes the Pasteur treatment, those rabies bugs seem to be more scared of David than he was scared of them for they never showed up. The boy enjoys perfect health of mind and body and our friends can all be free from any worries; David is alright and doing well.

PAID DEFENSE WORKERS ADVOCATED BY BRITON

I found a very interesting news item under a Los Angeles date line of the International News Service: "A. Emil Davies, London civilian defense chairman, advised local defense officials to profit by the experience of bomb-torn Britain and use paid defense workers rather than volunteers in air raids. He continues in his own words: 'We found it necessary to man our auxiliary services with paid intsead of volunteer workers to make certain they would be on hand when needed. Also it gave us the right to order them, not invite them, to do things,' the authority said".

Now I am going to propose to the proper persons in Washington that they detail those socalled Conscientious Objectors to do this type of air raid warden work. A conscientious objector says he does not want to do anything that would help kill people and he refuses to take up arms. Alright, then, in that case he must be eager to do everything to save human lives and property. Why, then, not use them as air raid wardens and give each a room which can be outfitted like a headquarters should be where they can sleep and have their office and be on duty 24 hours a day and be on call to do humanitarian work when the time comes?

People who refuse to take human lives have qualities which are quite valuable in times of emergency when their aid is needed to save human lives. Instead of locking up those people in camps where they do merely manual work they could be trained and instructed to be on call 24 hours a day and take orders to be of service where their skill and love of humanity could best be utilized. There is a place for everybody to serve his country. One does it one way another does it another way. Why not utilize the best qualities of everybody for the work they are best fitted to do and would do it wholeheartedly! I am certain we have overlooked the qualities and the values of those Conscientious Objectors when we put them to merely do forestry work while there must be many who would make splendid organizers and work most devotedly because they are of a religious bent of mind who according to their religion should love their fellowmen as they love themselves. Here is a field where they could shine and be on call.

In connection with this idea it comes to me that while we have a war and a navy department in our government we don't have a peace department. It is quite evident that no matter what the military achievements be in the field, the final adjustment is arranged around the peace table. Why don't we have a Peace department that would have as its object the arranging and the keeping of peace just as the war department has as its object the conduct and successful prosecution of the war?! A successful prosecution of peace objects is at least as important as the successful prosecution of the war, to my way of thinking. If we are willing to spend one billion dollars every week to keep up the war and then we could lose it all if the peace terms are not properly arranged, should we not be willing to maintain a trained department to safeguard the peace and evolve such peace terms as would not lead to another war? What do you think?

WHY NOT?

Application of Creative Economics

UNLIMITED CREDIT FOR EVERYBODY

The President has presented demands to congress and it has been accepted by congress to the effect that we are to spend one billions dollars each week for the prosecution of the war and to supply all allied nations which declare war on the Axis powers with materials needed for the war. This amount of money is a little more than one half the national income for 1941. In the past year the nation produced a little over 92 billions of income or around $700 per person. Since some people got a good deal more than $700 last year that gives you a picture of how many people got a good deal less than $700 last year on which they had to live. That prorated income means that each person in the U. S. received about $58 per month last year to live on. In a family of five it comes to $290 per month.

Compare these figures with the national expenditures for the prosecution of the war. At the rate of spending one billion each week, it means that every person extends credit to the federal government to the tune of $8 each week, or $32 each month. In a family of five it means that we are giving the government the power to place a charge against us for $160 every month which we oblige ourselves to repay with interest henceforth. And what do we get in return? We get the promise that the American way of living will be protected against Japanese standards of living and that of the Axis powers. We are willing to accept an increasing burden of debt to the tune of $160 per month for each family of five just to maintain what our forefathers left us: the American way of life.

But the money we allow the government to spend on the war is all blown into fire and dust of destruction by the time the war is over. There are no tangible assets left to show for it except the American way of life which we had before we went to war. And just for that we gave this unlimited credit.

There is quite a lesson in this if you follow me closely. And this is the lesson: If we can spend $160 a week per family of five to just maintain the American way of life against being encroached upon by the Axis and Japan and blow that money into smithereens in the course of the war without tangible assets left at the end except the American way of life, how much credit could we give to our people to use for constructive purposes to improve the American way of life and at the end of the year have the tangible wealth produced by the labors and ingenuity of those who would have used this credit to produce useful things, comforts, new wealth and new ideas? How much credit could we afford to give?

Last year the family of five produced $290 per month of income. We are telling the government that we are willing to take $160 out of those $290 and have just $130 left for living expenses, at the rate we are spending now for the war. But real wealth and real income is the result of constructive production not destruction or production for war.

Would we dare extend credit to new brains and new energy that came forward with new ideas during and after this war to produce more and better goods for us all? Suppose the war is over and the young man is mustered out of the army and the boy who graduated from school also is looking for work, how could we give a job to the two of them during the post-war adjustment period? This is going to be quite a problem. We were willing to spend a billion each week for war, will we be willing to spend as much each week for producing new opportunities of employment for the people who come out of the army and who are graduating from schools? During the war all we have to show for is blown in powder, worn out battleships, useless machines that are of no value in peace time, still we spend a billion a week. Now could we afford, would it be a bad risk to spend as much money for constructive work and would it pay us to advance credit to each young fellow coming out of the army or out of school so that he can use his best energies, talents and labor to either employ himself or be employed by men and women of vision who could produce undreamed of wealth if they could get hold of the proper capital and credit and go to work.

From a purely selfish standpoint, I am certain, that we can afford to give credit, enough credit, all the credit that is needed to start up new enterprises to employ all who want to work. It would pay us dividends in actual returns. That is the lesson which spending a billion a week for war is going to teach us in this country. If we can do it for war, we can do it for constructive purposes as well. In future talks I am going to go more into detail of what I forsee will be the result of extending such credit to those who want to build up the country, make jobs for themselves and others, be useful, produce assets to justify the expenditures of credit and set to work all that capital now lying idle in banks, except as it is drawn for buying government bonds. The lesson of the war can be duplicated to the greatest advantage in peace time. When that is done this nation will not show merely a 92 billion dollars of yearly income, but at least double, trebble and quadrouple it as the system of unlimited credit for useful production proves its worth. I shall give you example after example how this has already been done in individual cases here and there and how successful it is. If it were to be used on a national scale there would be no such thing as one third illclad, illfed or illhoused. Where people want to work they should get all the credit they need to be useful. The money is available, the people are here to do the work, the country has plenty of natural resources to be usefully applied, all it takes is vision enough to give the people capable of doing the constructive work all the credit they need to do a good job of it.

Declaration of Mazdaznan

By Dr. O. Z. Ha'nish

Mazdaznan recognizes in their proper place all books as results of the demands made at certain times, but accepts as its infallible guide none other than the Open Book of Nature; also recognizing it as an instrument for immediate requirements and needs; the interpretation whereof is sacred to every Individual as a Divine right.

Mazdaznan declares that the Infinite will not manifest in unclean tabernacles, and that we owe it to ourselves and the race to remain unspotted before the world, show forth pure and healthy bodies, noble and truthful characters, commanding respect from all and by all, for "Know ye not that your body is the Temple of the Living God?"

Mazdaznan declares in accordance to the testimony of Saviors, Saints and Sages: That "Verily, even in this flesh thou shalt see God," who will come "to His Temple not made by hands", but "in His expressed image," and: That the body of Man is the highest ideal of God and the culmination of processes creative and evolutionary, with the end in view of becoming an honor for Eternity.

Mazdaznan recognizes Goodness, Beauty, Character and Sublimity in everything confined to its own sphere, and sees, like unto a mirror, the manifestations of all things not only within their spheres, but also beyond the same, recognizing in the things outside of one's self reflective expressions serving as a memorandum for our good, and as an incentive unto higher aspirations yet to be attained.

Mazdaznan recognizes the Holy Family of Father, Mother and Child as the expressing principle of Unity thru the Divine Trinity, forever revealing the Duality of Creation by the perpetuation of procreation as the emanation of Union.

Mazdaznan enables Man thru its inimitable teachings to conquer all prenatal influences and earthbound ties of ancestry, redeeming Mankind from sickness, sin and sorrow, and thus saving Man from blind egoism and narrow selfishness, contributing to society one more member enlightened with the spirit of Altruism and broadness of Mind, serving Humanity by exemplication of true Character, on which the ultimate salvation of society and the redemption of the Race depends.

HEALTH-GERMS

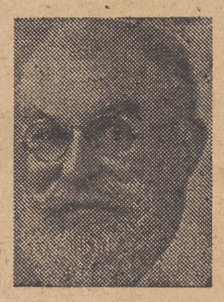
"THEY SAY"

"They say" this or that is good for what ails U, but who are "they". No matter what the trouble is, there are dozens of persons who will advise U and tell U what "they say" is just what U need.



Dr. Geo. Starr White

There can never be any exact science in the healing art, as the same un-helth in one person may require an entirely different method of rectifying than that used for another.

No matter what "they say", if the "say so" isn't according to common sense, and does not carry out the laws of Nature, that "say so" must be wrong.

Not so long ago it was not generally known what makes a Mexican "jumping bean" jump. A very "scientific" article in one of our magazines appeared, explaining why the "jumping beans" acted as they did.

A few days later a patient said to me, "They say it is the pulling of the fibers in the 'jumping beans' that make them jump when in the sun". I asked whom he meant by "they?" He named the magazine in which he had seen the article. I told him to take a pair of manicure scissors and tweezers and pull one of the "jumping beans" apart carefully. Then he would learn never again to rely on "they" when he could find out the truth as well as anybody else.

"They say" advice has put many a person in his grave.

Don't try any remedy unless that remedy be a natural remedy. Any remedy to be natural, must strike at the cause of the un-helth—not at the result of the un-helth.

Texan for Bonds Without Interest

WASHINGTON,—Rep. Patman (D-Tex) said he would "vigorously insist" that the house ways and means committee give early consideration to a bill providing for the issuance of non-negotiable government bonds to finance the war debt "without the payment of interest."

The Texan asserted that unless congress took prompt steps to relieve the condition, the United States public soon would be unable to pay any of the principal on the national debt and tax receipts would be applied indefinitely toward interest payments. He insisted his plan would not cause inflation.

The proposal would permit the treasury to receive the money necessary for public expenditures by issuing and depositing with the federal reserve banks bonds that bear no interest. The bonds would be retained by the banks, with the government making a payment on them each year. They would not be sold to the public.

Printer's Note: Of course there are a lot of things I could say about this—such as— that would spoil all the fun of making money off war—and it is part of the plan, etc, etc, etc,—but honestly, Rep. Patman, why not adopt our old friend Abe Lincoln's idea of financing not only the war but as our national monetary system,—that of direct or government owned and controlled money—Yup I admit it would kinda put the crimp in some people's ideas and scheming—but then as you say, "somethin' gota be done", so why not do something practical, as well as just? ! !

Value of Defense Bonds

WASHINGTON,—A foolish notion is getting around that the investment quality of defense bonds is somehow shadowed by the size of the forecast debt ($110,000,000,000). True, none can see prospects of paying off such a colossal debt at any standard of taxable living we have so far known.

But government debts, big or small, are never paid. They are refinanced and sometimes reduced as bonds come due. Refinanced Liberties from the last war are still outstanding (we even have about $384,000,000 of greenbacks of the Civil war still circulating in our currency).

Anytime anyone wants cash for his defense bonds he will be able to get it. If, in 10 years, too many bondholders want their money instead of, say, an interest-paying bond, then the treasury will raise the money to pay them by floating new bonds.

The only thing that will endanger the value of a defense bond is for us to lose this war. You had better buy some more to protect your original investment.

—Paul Mallon.

Land Speculation Scourge

Nothing in the threepoint program recently announced by the Department of Agriculture to prevent a depression following this war would prevent a scourge of land speculation, such as occurred in and following World War I, and brought disastrous results to the nation's agriculture.

That spree of land speculation, in which so many people not farmers bought land to reap a crop of unearned increment, caused a doubling of the farm-mortgage left a load of debt that could not be paid at post-war prices for farm products. The result was tragic loss of farms.

Making work by various programs, providing services and facilities for farmers, and carrying out programs to maintain prices of farm products will not prevent land speculation. These proposed measures will not keep investors from buying land as a hedge against inflation and to reap unearned increment.

Before we can have a permanent stablized prosperity for agriculture, we must face the land question squarely, and take effective steps to solve it. We must see that agricultural benefits are not soaked up in speculative land values that place a crushing burden upon actual farmers.—Nebraska Union Farmer.

"Blood and Tears"

In a British broadcast, Prime Minister Churchill is quoted: "Mr. Speaker, I confess with shame that up to now I had found it politically convenient to join in that spontaneous conspiracy of the privileged class and their adherents all over the world, to misrepresent and vilify the Bolshevik revolution and the liberty, equality and fraternity thereby attained. The Soviet character of freedom we dubbed a totalitarian tyranny. This we did in the hope of retarding the consummation of democracy by our own people. Blindly we assisted the militaristic foes of Communism, although in doing so we jeopardized our own institutions. We are now reaping in blood and tears the reward of our perfidy."

Democracy in Mr. Churchill's language means Land Rent for Revenue and not a Singletax which he has advocated ardently. Lloyd George did likewise before World War but reversed under war conditions. Count Leo Tolstoy was Russia's greatest Free Land apostle. Lenin deplored that the idea was "beyond the capacity of a nation not ten per cent of whom are able to read," and stated, "with a higher average intelligence we may adopt taxation of land values and enjoy economic freedom."

Congressional Lilliputians

There are no big men in congress. They spend billions of dollars to save the world, but do not have the brains or heart to take care of our own people. Congress has a standing Committee on Wild Life that provides feeding ponds for ducks in every state, and even in Canada. But they have no feeding places for our own people, who migrate from one state to another in search of a livelihood.—Hon. John H. Tolan (Dem., California)

Conscript Land Rent

Benjamin Franklin is quoted: "Private Property therefore is a Creature of Society, and is subject to the calls of that Society, whenever its necessities shall require it, even to its last Farthing; its Contributions therefore to the public Exigencies are not to be considered as conferring a Benefit on the Public, entitling the Contributors to the distinctions of Honor and Power, but as the Return of an Obligation previously received, or the Payment of a just debt."

"We are going to fight with everything we've got," says the President.

In Dearborn Independent, May 19, 1923, it was stated:

"Now, take another class of property, the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania. They underlie 360,000 acres of surafce, are less than one-tenth developed, the rest in the condition in which the Almighty laid them down a million or more years ago. They are taxed at the rate of wild land usually, and are worth from $20,000 to $150,000 an acre. Four railroad corporations and a few private concerns and estates, all closely affiliated, own the entire deposit. During the World War while the Federal Government was taking pennies from children for soda water, the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania doubled in value from six billions to twelve billion dollars, and that VAST INCREMENT of WEALTH CONTRIBUTED NOT ONE CENT TO THE NATION IN ITS HOUR OF NEED."

On May 11, 1901, Chas N. Schwab, Pres. U. S. Steel Corp'n, testified before the Industrial Commission: "We own something like 60,000 acres of Connellsville Coal. There is no more Connellsville coal. You could not buy it for $60,000 an acre." If this land was worth $3,600,000,000 in 1901, what is it worth now?

Mr. President, your partner Mr. Churchill is on record to collect Land Rent for Revenue, Joe Stalin won't stop you, and America's workers will back you to fight with "everythng we've got".

Rent Revenue, Not Singletax

A tax that does not touch your earning power
Nor cripple commerce like a tariff wall—
A tax that does not with each passing hour
Pick every pocket— is not a Tax at all..

A tax that takes the Unearned Increment,
But leaves the fruits of Industry alone—
Gives every man precise equivalent
For what is taken, has too long been known
By a fictitious title— Singletax!

A rose by any name may smell the same,
But titles sometimes count for more than facts
Not properly presented. Let the name
Define the purpose— Rent for Revenue
And not a Singletax might put it through.

—Horatio. N. B. Land Rent is what is meant.

Good Will Industries

The San Diego Goodwill Industries last month expended in "opportunity wages" the highest amount of any month in its history, the total being $4,598.07. The number of requests for calls from the Goodwill trucks was also a new high record.

Supt. Insko has just received from the national headquarters the following copy of a telegram they had received from Paul C. Cabot, deputy chief of the Bureau of Industrial Conservation, Office of Production Management: "Advise all Goodwill Industries to increase collections of salvage materials as rapidly as possible. Paper, rags, metal and rubber needed. Reconditioning of other discarded articles by Goodwill Industries will help conserve new consumer goods."

Immortal Truth

For truth and right..
The brave in heart, the true in mind,
Will dare to see the truth aright,
While coward souls, perverse and blind,
Will shun the light.

But tho all eyes on earth were closed,
Still would the sun as brightly shine,
And truth, by all the world opposed,
Is still divine.

Right will be placed upon the throne
And there will rule with power,
The thot and act of honor sworn
Will speed the glorious hour.
That which men abuse today,
Men of the future will adore,
And truth which error seeks to slay,
Lives evermore."

Not a Fool --- Only a Protectionist

In Adelaide the other evening, the following amusing scene occurred. A dozen workers were standing about talking when a smart looking stranger joined them, saying:

"I suppose there are some protectionists here?"

"Rather, we are all protectionists," came back in chorus.

"Glad to hear it. You are the kind of men I like to meet."

"You are a good protectionist I suppose," said a pert looking little man to the stranger.

"Well, I suppose so. Protection secures every one high wages, constant employment, and plenty of employment, doesn't it?"

"That's it, boss."

"Then I am for protection and d——n a man who says it doesn't make us all rich, happy and contented."

"Now you're talking," said half-a-dozen.

"You never have any strikes here, do you?"

"Oh yes, very frequently; one of our largest works is now closed because of one."

"Strikes are all wrong."

"Not much, they are all right."

"But what makes you strike?"

"Because they put us on starvation wages."

"Who does?"

"The manufacturers."

"But they can't do that."

"Why can't they?"

"Because protection won't let them."

"The mischief it won't. You work in the factories awhile and you'll soon find out your mistake. As soon as there is a good stock on hand, or trade slackens a little, they begin to grind down our wages, and we have to strike to keep them from coming down."

"You must be mistaken," said the stranger.

"How mistaken? Don't I know what my own experience is? Tell me how I am mistaken?"

"Why, wages are high—high all the time: employment is plentiful and constant."

"You must be crazy!"

"Perhaps I am, but I am a thorough protectionist and believe in it. Now doesn't the protective tariff secure the best wages and constant employment to the working man?"

"Yes."

"And have we not protection all round?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, I must be right when I tell you that wages are good—good all the time, and employment plentiful; there can't be anything else while the protection lasts."

"Do you know what I think you are?"

"I do not," replied the cynical stranger.

"You are a d——n fool!"

"On, no! I am a protectionist." —With apologies to the "Cincinatti Enquirer."

Gliders For Boys

A state-wide defense plan to train high school and junior college boys in fundamentals of air plane construction and ground school flight training by building gliders in manual training sections of the schools has been announced.

Thomas Wolfe, vice president of Western Air Lines and director of Bowlus Sailplane Company, San Fernando, stated that conferences were already underway with S. B.. Kellog, Boys Welfare Department of the Los Angeles City Schools, to supply quantities of gliders in kit form for training of boys between 15 and 20.

Further ramifications of the defense training program will be organization of soaring societies where finished gliders can be used for ground flight training. Bertrand Rhine, California State Wing Commander of the Civil Air Patrol, announced that CAP would aid in supervision for schools adopting the construction and training projects.

The sailplane for training has been tested during the past year. Last week an Approved Type Certificate from the Civil Aeornautics Board started mass production of trainers.

Silver Shirt Head Gets Jail Sentence

ASHEVILLE, N. C., — William Dudley Pelley, leader of the Silver Shirts of America, was sentenced by Superior Court Judge F. Don Phillips to serve from 2 to 3 years in prison upon conviction in 1935 of violation of North Carolina security laws. Prayer for judgment had been continued when he was convicted in 1935.

Judge Phillips also directed that a sentence of from 1 to 2 years, pronounced in 1935 by Judge Wilson Warlick and suspended upon conditions of good behavior, be placed into effect, the two sentences to run concurrently.

Judge Phillips immediately ordered Pelley, who has been at liberty several months, held in the county jail.

democracy

By Charles H. Ingersoll
(Of Dollar Watch Fame)

The small farmer and the small business man are the objects of emotional solicitude (meaning the stock-in-trade) of the professional politician (who runs our democracy, when our need is for statesmen).

Ingersoll

The latest movement to save small business (since the effort to get dollar-a-year war contractors to patronize their little brothers) is being launched by M. C. O'Mahoney, co-head with Messrs. Arnold and Henderson in Monopoly-Committee curbs (where Arnold said no such thing as monopoly exists).

Mayor LaGuardia is also using a loud speaker in behalf of some 165,000 small businesses being starved by priorities and finished by the new loads of death-dealing taxation. Now if these long sufferers can avoid being talked to death as the final act in their tragic situation, they should have a slight chance of survival of the duration—of the bewilderment as to whether we do or do not want production, consumption and profits.

The Cultists who are trying to build on the proposition that land rent is not for land but for services, somehow slyly injected into the land, prove their fallacy by such breaks as this in current 'Cause and Effect':—'Hencc government cannot collect rent at sites where services are not used.'

This means that there are millions of miles of undeveloped land of abutting grand highways that cannot pay rent! and, conversely, there will be vast areas where there are no highways but large development, that cannot pay!

Why put the handicap of long and involved 'explanations' upon the adventure of changing terms? Your 'services' can be delivered only through land; how can you deny land then? What handicap is there in accounting for rent by services and by fertility, or productivity, and people or population? And why let yourselves forget monopoly as a cause of rent? And, above all, why deprive yourselves of destructive taxation as a help to arousing indignation?

Maneuvers, according to Mr. Lippmann, are discovering an allways powerful America. Our political greatness as producers of war machinery and materials was taken for granted. Maneuvers are now demonstrating this. But that we had the kind of 'genius' (like Hitler's) required for maneuvering such equipment, fighting genius—military sense—that was to be discovered. And we are now seen as obviously as great at that as at construction.

More inspiring, however, to Lippmann (the ex-socialist and war-resister) is his finding how adaptable and effective our draftees are in these maneuvers. Here is the adroit power of the famous columnist shown. Machines and their organization need no encouragement; steel and dynamite go along on their own. But flesh and blood need maneuvering into the mood of war; and so do their home folks, who can't, or don't care to, participate; but they can 'manage' so that war can go on, as if it were a holiday, a pleasure, and a privilege.

Letters to Gladys

THE UNIVERSAL ORDER PREVAILS

Dear Gladys:

Thanks for your prompt reply to my letters. Promptness is the secret of orderly life. Just looking at this typewriter while I am activating its keys, if each touch would not immediately press the proper letter in its place I could not imprint words at this rapid speed to convey to you my thought. Take the evolution of the typewriter, the Mergenthaler Linotype; have you ever studied it? Do you notice how at the slightest touch the corresponding matrixes slide into place forming the words, sentences, paragraphs and dipping themselves into the metal that produces the lines which form the basis of the newspaper. If the prompt response to the touch fails, the whole process is mixed up, there is no sense to the letters as they group themselves, the machine has to be repaired.

Promptness, keep your appointed dates, respond to the effort made in your behalf, reciprocate and if you fail, then overhaul the machinery of your own brain and organism to discover where the hitch lies.

You wrote that some people don't take kindly to our association, you a young woman, I old enough to be your grandfather, they gossip about us, it embarrasses you and your family.

As for myself I never submit to the rule of inferiority. I worship superiority, am an aristocrat even a royalist, I uphold the Kingdom of the highest and best intelligence; that is the rule to which I submit, inferior minds never control my life; if they do they have a battle on their hands because there is going to be an explosion and they will be shaken out of their positions where they were able to dictate to me. I am sovereign, THE sovereign.

Being in a world that is still in the jungle state I have to use prudence. I cannot change the world over night, must therefore let the jungle denizens go their own way, but I am using my ingenuity to establish my own sphere where I am boss and that independence in my own sphere I defend for dear life. I have my castle and I hold it. So whenever you chose to call at my castle you are welcome; if people gossip, that's their nature, each according to his kind. Some will see one thing, others will imagine another; the thing that counts is the truth. As long as we can answer for our actions with a clean conscience and have nothing to apologize for, the opinions of inferior minds have no effective control over our lives. That is the first step you must dare take if you are going to master your own destiny. Step out of the mass, don't be a slave to them, hold your head high, have a lofty goal and pursue it regardless of the yapping of the gossipers. Your friends will never think evil of our association because they know you and they know me and they appreciate what our mutual interest is; the others don't count.

If we tell them that I am not infatuated with you, they cannot understand it; if they learn in Sunday school, or the preachers advise them that to be a Christian one must love God with all one's might and the neighbor as oneself, to them it is merely a rhetoric phrase which they have heard so many a time and never followed in practice, that it has lost all true meaning; they consider it wild-eyed idealism, never dreaming that the IDEAL is the REAL.

But I am telling you: You fall in love with God and the Beauty of this marvelous ORDER in the universe, worship it and fall in step with it; be on time, do your share promptly, submit to superiority, decline to accept the rule of inferiority, find your own place in the scheme of life, hold it and progress daily, you will discover that soon, because you love God, you also learn to love people; some more some less, according to the measure that they make effort to be of service to themselves and their fellowman. To that extent you will discover that you can trust them; they will be drawn to you and as you keep faith, they will appreciate it and finally even love you for it. That is the secret of happiness; there is no better way.

Hope you succeed, KOSTI.

— MICHAEL —

By Robert Service

"There's something in your face,
Michael, I've seen it all the day;
There's something quare that Wasn't there when first ye went away."

"It's just the army life, mother,
The drill, the left, the right
That puts the stiffenin' in yer spine and locks your jaws up tight."

"There's something in yer eyes,
Michael, an' how you stare and stare—
You're lookin' at me now, me boy,
as though I wasn't there."

"It's just the things I've seen,
mother, the sights that come and come;
A bit of broken pulp that used to be a chum."

"There's something in your heart,
Michael, that makes ye wake at night.
And often when I hear ye moan,
I tremble in me fright."

"It's just a man I killed, mother,
a mother's son like me,
It seems he's always hauntin' me,
he'll never let me be."

"But maybe he was mad, Michael,
and maybe it was right,
To kill the inimy ye hate in fair
and honest fight."

"I did not hate at all, mother, he never did me harm;
I think he was a lad like me, who worked upon a farm."

"And what's it all about, Michael,
why did you have to go?
A quiet, peaceful lad like you, and we were happy so!"

"It's thim that's up above, mother,
it's thim that sits and rules;
We've got to fight the wars they make; it's us that's got to pay.
"Oh, it would be the end, mother,
when lads like him and me
That sweat to feed the ones above, decide that we'll be free."

"And when will that day come,
Michael, and when will fightin' cease,
And simple folks may till the soil
and live and love in peace?"

"It's coming soon and soon, mother
it's nearer every day,
When only men who earn their wage will have a word to say.
"When all who gain their honest
bread in every land and soil
Will claim the brotherhood of man,
the comradeship of toil.
"When we, the workers, all demand:
'What are we fighting for?'
Then, then we'll end that stupid crime,
that devil's madness—war."

SONNET: THE HALCYON

If 1492 brought a New World,
Let 1942 bring something better—
A New World Peace, with Free Trade's flag

On every front to make War a dead letter !

Give every nation some place in the sun—
Access to nature's bounty, and the pull
Of Trade's renaissance brings the Halcyon—
For who will fight when dinner pails are full?

Free Trade is natural trade and nature knows
Her business better than YOU!—little Man.
This tribulation that you suffer goes
